HARRY G. HAWKER IS RESCUED
IN MID-OCEAN BY SMALL SHIP
AND IS NOW SAFE IN SCOTLANDFirst Report From The Missing Aviator Since Last Sunday,
When He Attempted To Cross Ocean In a Biplane;
News Is Flashed To Scotland By Flag From a Danish
Steamer; All Britain Is Electrified.[By Associated Press to The Banner]
LONDON, May 26—Harry G. Hawker and Lieut. Commander Mackenzie Grieve, the two air men who started last Sunday in an airplane to fly across the Atlantic ocean from St. Johns, Newfoundland, have been picked up at sea and landed in Scotland. Both men are in perfect health.

It is officially announced by the admiralty that the aviators were picked up in latitude 56°20; longitude 29°30, having alighted close to the little Danish steamer Mary, owing to a stoppage of circulation in the water pipes between the radiator and the water pump.

The airplane, a Sopwith machine, was not salvaged.

The first report of the aviators since their "jump off" last Sunday came when the Mary, which was bound from Norfolk to Aarhus, rounded the Butt of Lewis Sunday and wigwagged the fact that she had Hawker and Grieve aboard.

"Saved hands of Sopwith airplane" was the signal.

"Is it Hawker?" was the question sent out by the flags from the butt, which is the most northwesterly point of the Hebrides group off Scotland.

"Yes," laconically replied the Mary. "The admiralty immediately sent out a fast torpedo boat destroyer in an endeavor to intercept the Mary and take off the aviator. There was an anxious wait of several hours, when the word was flashed that the destroyer had come across the steamer and transferred Hawker and Grieve, and was taking them to Thurso, on the northern coast of Scotland, about 1,300 miles east of the Butt of Lewis.

"The destroyer, the Revenge, reported to the admiralty this evening that Hawker and Grieve would sleep on board tonight. The aviators will reach London at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening."

The news of the rescue has electrified all Britain. Eight destroyers, after a thorough search of the Atlantic for 300 miles from the Irish coast, had given up the quest and there was practically no hope that the airmen were alive.

Sunday, however, the forlorn hope that the aviators might be picked up by some craft without wireless was realized. The Danish steamer Mary, crawling along at nine knots, was the lucky vessel, and her brief message to the watchers at the Butt of Lewis, as she proceeded on her way to Scotland, left the public to speculate wonderingly over the details of the airmen's adventures.

The admiralty immediately dispatched destroyers from northern points to intercept the Mary and The Daily Mail instructed all signal stations to try to communicate with the captain, with the urgent request to land the aviators at some Scottish port. The admiralty quest succeeded and a wireless message came from the destroyer Woolston late in the evening that she had overtaken the Mary and had transferred the aviators.

Nothing except some great battle has excited London more than the day's unexpected tidings. The public was disposed to question whether the first report could be trusted, and the admiralty statement that it was taking measures to verify the report indicated doubt, which the Woolston's message dispelled.

The modest Hawker home near Surbiton was quickly the center of interest, crowds of people swarmed there. Mrs. Hawker, who had only on Saturday received a telegram of condolence from King George, said: "I had a presentiment all along that I should see my husband again. I was confident all the time, although everyone consoled with me. I am overjoyed and too overcome to talk now."

The London Daily Mail, which offered a purse of $50,000 for the first flight by a heavier than air craft across the Atlantic ocean, will give Hawker and Grieve a consolation prize of £5,000.

PEACE TERMS WILL BE GIVEN TO THE AUSTRIAN DELEGATES
SOMETIME DURING THE WEEK

The Week May Also Witness The Solution of the Problems Raised By The Conflicting Claims of Italy and Jugoslavia In The Adriatic Area; Germany's Counter Proposal of Peace Also Coming This Week.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE BANNER)

This week, during which it is expected that the terms of peace for German-Austria will be presented to her delegates, may witness also the solution of the problems raised by the conflicting claims of Italy and Jugoslavia in the Adriatic area.

Paris dispatches indicate that the conference is working on new problems, seeking to have the secret treaty, made at London in 1915, a basis for the settlement of the many disputes.

Germany's counter proposal to the peace terms, according to dispatches, are expected to be presented to the allies tomorrow. Up to date Germany has submitted thirteen notes, asking for modification in the terms and in addition to the formal proposition of the German's which is expected tomorrow, there may be still more notes to be transmitted.

General Count Max Montgelas, one of Germany's delegates, is quoted by a Berlin newspaper as saying that the terms of peace, as they now stand, will not be signed by the German plenipotentiaries. He contends that the military clauses of the treaty make it impossible for Germany to maintain order and that the economic clauses condemn the German working men to slavery.

It is reported from Berlin that Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's proposal to be presented by the German delegates contains an agreement to reduce Germany's army at once to three hundred thousand, with a further cutting down to two hundred thousand a year after the conclusion of peace.

All of Germany's suggestions relative to her western frontier have, in a sharp note to Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, by Premier Clemenceau, been rejected.

Estonian forces are officially reported to have broken through on the Pskov front west of Petrograd

PROPOSALS OF HUNS
ARE TURNED DOWN

Allied Powers Reject Suggestions Relative to the Sarre Basin.

[By Associated Press to The Banner]
PARIS, May 26—With the exception of one minor concession, all suggestions and counter proposals by Germany for the disposition of the Sarre Basin have been rejected by the reply of the allied and associated powers.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's appeal for an oral discussion of the points at issue on this subject was ignored.

The concession agreed to is that Germany might create a prior charge upon her assets or revenues for the payment of the mines in the Sarre region if the plebiscite goes against France. If, however, the sum agreed upon is not paid within a year from the date it is due, the reparation commission shall effect payment under instructions from the league of nations.

This alteration was made in view of Germany's declaration that it was impossible for her to accumulate a sufficient sum of gold with which to pay for the mines in the 15 years before the plebiscite is taken, since other reparations would constitute a constant drain.
